RVM's Greg Cancilla Takes Top Honors for Second Year in NY Law Journal Reader Rankings

NEW YORK, September 22, 2014 – Greg Cancilla, Director of Forensics at RVM Enterprises, Inc., has once again taken top honors in the New York Law Journal Reader Rankings as Best Expert Witness in Technology.

Greg Cancilla is the Director of Forensics at RVM Enterprises, Inc. He is responsible for the preservation, identification, extraction, documentation and interpretation of digital data. As a certified forensic engineer, Greg has performed countless digital forensics investigations since entering the field in 2003. Mr. Cancilla has offered testimony in numerous cases, including testimony on a key piece of plaintiff's evidence in Ronald Luri v. Republic Services, Inc., et al., which rendered the largest single plaintiff verdict in the State of Ohio's history.

"It's wonderful to receive this recognition from the New York Law Journal," said Greg Cancilla, Director of Forensics at RVM. "That I have received this distinction for the second time is a great honor."

"We are extremely proud of Greg for being recognized for the second year in a row. The market is extremely commoditized and it's impressive for Greg to stand head and shoulders above others in the area of forensics," said Vinnie Brunetti, Chief Executive Officer of RVM Enterprises, Inc.

"Forensics is one of the most sensitive areas for our clients. Professionalism is crucial when collecting data from a client's environment or from a home office; and clients have often remarked on the expertise and professionalism of Greg and his team.
